Benefits of Aquatic Therapy

- Aquatic Therapy is a specialized form of physical therapy and is considered one of the best environments to achieve full function.
- Patients will exercise with less difficulty due to the buoyancy of water and decreased weight bearing on painful joints.
- The viscosity of water provides three dimensional resistance.
- Most common conditions we treat with aquatic therapy are: arthritis, balance improvements, postsurgical status, proprioception problems, neck and back injuries, fibromyalgia, peripheral neuropathy, joint replacement and orthopedic injuries.
